For 50 years the Konstanz Seminar has provided an independent platform for intense discussion of recent developments in monetary theory and policy. From Karl Brunner’s days to today, what has made the Konstanz Seminar the Konstanz Seminar are the lively discussions among participants; practitioners, academics, and policymakers alike. In the conference room, and throughout the breaks. This year, we will have a Konstanz Seminar light. Thank you for registering!

Technical details:

We will have the meet and greet in a virtual room on spatial chat.

The room on spatial chat is open from 2 pm CET:

Just click the link above, give your name (any) and you are ready to go. The idea of spatial chat is to mimic the small-talk experience of a conference coffee break. That is, all participants are in one room. Participants, by moving their icon with the mouse can form groups, lean into conversations, or leave these. It is quite intuitive to use. You only overhear conversations of a group that is nearby. That is, not everybody will listen to the same stream of conversation; allowing a chat and some privacy (digital, that is).

For the policy discussion, we will switch to ZOOM. Just click
